

Late Monday, the attorney general's office released 2,200 e-mails between Attorney General Marc Dann; his aide, Jessica Utovich; and others.

The staff at The Vindicator organized representative emails by topic, using long black lines to separate different exchanges. The e-mails in this section seem to reflect Dann's travel plans organized by Utovich.

To read the emails in the order in which they were sent, go to the bottom of each section separated by a black line and read up.

Subject: RE: Schedule
Importance: High

Initially, this was not being put on the schedule. Marc requested, because of the troopers and the security needing to know everywhere he goes, I put it on there. When I explained why it was not on there and why it probably should continue not to be, he said it had to be anyway and to just do it. It only goes out on the detailed schedule distribution list, to the trooper and the regional office he's working at. It doesn't go to the rest of the staff.

Sincerely,
Jessica

Subject: Schedule

Mary Beth called this morning and asked that you NOT put "travel to Gutierrez' Home, travel to Liberty High School, etc" on the schedule. I guess John Conley and Ed said that your description is too detailed and that this information should not get out to the general public. You know, all the bad people will come and get them.

Dude, I'm in a mtg. Do you really need to go to St Louis?
We were going to send Jenni Pratt. But you let me know.

You have events in Sandusky until 8p. (Blame others). The next morning you have an event in Mansfield at 8:45a. Would you like to go to the Yo on Monday or Cols? Tom needs to know and asked Arvin.
